

Presentation Description:

Title: McCall Mountain/Canyon Flying Seminars, LLC Presents:
"Flying the Idaho Backcountry" You Found it... Now What!"

Flying in the Idaho Backcountry is recognized as a unique and challenging flight environment which many aviators are drawn to. The Idaho wilderness holds over 48 airstrips within 4.5 million acres of wilderness that includes countless recreational opportunities. Many excited pilots plan their trip, pack their airplanes, top off with fuel for the last leg of a camping or hiking trip to arrive at their destination and then ask "Now what?" This seminar will focus on the finer points of drainage navigation, airspeed control, and airstrip observation that will make specialized approaches and departures delightful possibilities with comfortable outcomes. The speaker Lori MacNichol invites you to treat yourself to the next level of airmanship and experience the Idaho and Utah backcountry through this multimedia power point presentation that is instructional in nature which includes digital video of the backcountry.
